Vladislav Marinov. On the Phonological Status of the Palatal Consonants in the Wallachian Dialect of Northwestern Bulgaria. St. Cyril and St. Methodius University of Veliko Tarnovo, 2015. 242 p.

Vladislav Marinov's latest work on dialect consonant phonology makes a significant contribution both to Bulgarian and to Balkan linguistics. It is not only the first extensive description of the palatal consonant system of the Bre-govo Wallachian dialect, but also a solidly-argued work that puts an end to the ongoing debate in Romanian linguistics regarding the existence of phonologically palatal consonants in Romanian.
